Books and Magazines

Henry White, who for several years held an influential position as an officer of the Garment Workers of America, a body which he represented at several conventions of the American Federation of Labor, contributes to the September number of the North American Review an article entitled "The Labor Union and the Presidential Campaign." Mr. White criticizes the acts of the leaders of the American Federation of Labor in making an effort to induce union workmen to support a particular political party. In doing so they have departed from the traditional policy of the unions, which has been to leave their members entirely free to act in politics as they chose. Mr. White doubts whether union laborers will respond in telling numbers to the appeal of their leaders, and should this prove to be the case, the result will simply tend to show the weakness of organized labor as a factor in politics.

PLANS FOR STATE MEETING
Federation Program Will Contain Names of Prominent Club Workers and Speakers.

Plans for the entertainment of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, which will meet in Omaha October 12, 14 and 15, have been almost completed and a good program is announced. Among the speakers who will address the Federation are Mrs. Blair of St. Paul, chairman of the household economics committee of the General Federation; Mrs. Anna L. Clark of Missouri, formerly chairman of the Civil Service committee of the General Federation.

The Society of Fine Arts has arranged for an address by John Sherwood of Chicago, former chairman of the art committee of the General Federation. The delegates will accept an invitation to visit and inspect the Armour and Cudahy plants at South Omaha. Mrs. Frank Haller and Mrs. George W. Lininger will open their home and the Lininger art gallery to the women during the meetings.

D. A. R. State Conference.
The date of the state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be October 29 and 30 at Fremont. The Lewis and Clark chapter will act as hostesses and the state regent of Wyoming and Mrs. Bushnell of Council Bluffs, la., vice president general, will be present.

Shrine of Romance Shattered.
Boston Herald.

Alas, that the flames have destroyed the ancient palace of the Capulets, the home of Juliet at Verona. There were some doubts about the genuineness of the sweet tradition attaching to it, as there is about the reputed tomb of Juliet, but they have each been the shrine of young and sentimental travelers, who have deposited their or their tender tokens of their sympathetic emotions. It's a pity to deprive them of one of their altars, whether it was genuine or otherwise.

Spicing the Pudding.
Kansas City Times.

"We'll put a little ginger into the campaign now," says President Roosevelt, putting the word to the action.

tery, which had been erected to him by his uncle, he is surprised into assuming a false name by the sudden appearance of the young clergyman. He goes home with the rector, and finding in him and his life a new sensation for his faded mental appetite, he stays with him, and very soon comes to know the heretic. The outcome of her choice between the priest and pagan worked out with keen understanding and dramatic power. Mr. Hopkins is the first rector of the Church of the Holy Nativity in the Bronx, and quite a little of his own experience as a church worker is given in his novel. Published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

To be freshly informed and up to date read the September issue of the National Magazine. Follow Joe Chapple's easy account of "A New Era in Political Campaigning" for a glimpse of the work of the wonderful mechanism of political campaigning, the remarkable evolution in national politics from the old torchlight methods to the modern card-index system. Among the special features is "The Romance of the Oyster" by Gerhardt Agassiz. This is a striking discussion of the important and enormous industry and it reads like a compelling romance. Joe Chapple is irrefragable in the happy habit department, where he expounds the "Era of Cheerfulness." This article is important because, coming at this time from an editor who writes his magazine for the people, it is of unusual timeliness.

Winston Churchill's "Mr. Crew's Career" is a story of American politics as they are emerging from railroad control and corporate domination. Mr. Crew, an amusing and rather clever mixture of supreme self-sufficiency and shrewdness, grasps the opportunity of thrusting himself into politics on the reform platform. Austen Vale is the son of a wealthy railroad attorney, who begins the practice of law with a directness and force which suggests something of his methods in the west, from which he had recently returned. With the sympathy of the citizens. Much to the disappointment of his father, he becomes an anti-railroad lawyer of more than local reputation and attains a popularity that threatens the undoing of "Mr. Crew's Career." An admirable law story runs through it all, as well as many charms of character and incident. Published by the Macmillan company.

Bennett's Late Fiction Library—Book Dept.—enables you to read the newest books at little cost.

Bellevue.
Ak-Sar-Ben is the popular topic, nowadays. Harry Longsdorf was down from Omaha Saturday.

Miss Harriet Eddy was down from Omaha this week. David Fletcher visited his home in Bellevue this week.

A new barn is being erected on the place of G. C. Reed. Miss Eunice Nichol was shopping in Omaha Friday.

Howard Plank was a guest of friends in Bellevue last Sunday. Mrs. Arthur of Omaha is visiting her sister, Mrs. Wright.

Miss Blanche Reed and Mr. J. F. Goss were in Omaha Friday. Harry Harms and wife were visitors in South Omaha Saturday.

John Stockman of Cresco, Ia., is again in Bellevue attending college. Fred Roberts spent last week in Springfield, where he has relatives.

Miss Nellie McDonald of Omaha was visiting with A. Wright's Sunday. Miss Hertha Milner has been entertaining Miss Grace Clarke of Portland.

Albert Johns will give a dance at his new residence next Saturday evening. Mrs. Laura Sloan of Omaha visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chadd, last Sunday.

Miss Bude Rothert attended the matinee at the Krug in Omaha Saturday afternoon. The Bellevue band is doing regular practice and hopes to be in line for business soon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lee, long-time residents of Bellevue, have moved to Silver Creek. Fred Osborne of Woodbine, Ia., visited last Thursday evening with the Purcell family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Plank, with their son, Fred of LaPlatte, were Bellevue visitors Saturday night. The Royal Neighbors met with Mrs. Evelyn Grandy Friday evening. They report a fine time.

Mrs. G. C. Reed enjoyed the company of her sister, Mrs. Jess Haney, of South Omaha this week. A large number of Omaha people enjoyed an entertainment at the home of Mrs. E. Black last Sunday afternoon.

Carl Webman of Madison, Wis., and Mrs. Ruby Rother of Omaha visited the McDermotts last Wednesday. Two weeks ago Jim Dillon was nearly killed on the motor track. Yet he is now fishing again in the old Missouri. Information that events fairly reliable has leaked out to the end that the inter-urban car line is to have a half-hour service.

Miss Helen Fletcher, assistant business manager, has been with several days, but is better now and able to attend her duties again. Perhaps Charlie Patrick finds selling pump squanders easier than the old job. Anyway, he has quit working and taken up an agency. If T. Clarke of Omaha has generously donated to the Holiness church, The Holiness people also have raised considerable by subscription and should put up a fine new building.
